Tervist Klubivennad!

Alustan siis oma presidendiaasta esimese Bülletääniga. Suvised toimetamised hakkavad läbi saama ja lapsed lähevad kooli. Mul endal on esimene koolipäev väga selgelt meeles. Seljas olid mul lühikesed traksidega püksid ja sinine särk musta kikilipsuga. Sel nädalavahetusel toimub ka Pärnu suurim spordiüritus Jaanson Kahe Silla Jooks. Millest võtavad osa ka paljud meie Klubivennad. Jõudu neile!

Teave sekretärilt.

President-elect Ian Riseley chose Rotary: Making a Difference as his theme for 2017-18.

ROTARY:
MAKING A DIFFERENCE

In 2017-18, we'll answer the question "What is Rotary?" with RI President-elect Ian H.S. Riseley's theme, Rotary: Making a Difference. "Whether we're building a new playground or a new school, improving medical care or sanitation, training conflict mediators or midwives, we know that the work we do will change people's lives — in ways large and small — for the better."

Austatud piirkonna 1420 rotariaanid!

Loodetavasti on uus Rotary-aasta 2017/2018 alanud meeldivalt. Mulle endale on esimesed külaskäigud klubidesse olnud väga huvitavad. Kuigi käesolevat kirja kirjutades on ees veel 73 klubikülastust, võin kindlalt öelda, et need kujunevad minu kuberneriks oleku aja kõige tulemuslikumateks. On rõõm näha meeldivaid inimesi ja kuulda klubide ajakohastest tegemistest.

Minu enda jaoks on kuberneriaasta teema „Back to basics“ ehk ma panen rõhku Rotary kesksetele, rohujuuresemel asjadele. Igaühel tasuks küsida endalt: „Miks ma olen rotariaan? Miks just Rotary klubi on see koht, kus ma tahan kohtuda oma sõpradega ja teha ise selles maailmas midagi head?“

Kas Sulle on tuttavad need nelja küsimuse eetilised põhimõtted, mis on Rotary liikumise tugipostid? Kas oled mõelnud omaenda rollile oma klubis? Kas sinu heategevuslikud eesmärgid saavad klubisse kuulumise kaudu teoks?

Kutsun üles nende asjade üle järele mõtlema. Kuulumine Rotary liikumisse on kohustav, kuid ka suurepärase ja väärikas viis olla osa ülemaailmsest organisatsioonist. Võid oma liikmelisuse üle uhke olla! Pea meeles kanda selle märgiks oma klubist saadud rattasümbolit kõikjal, kus iganes liigud! Sellega läheta sõnumi, et kuulud organisatsiooni, mis on olnud asutamas ÜRO-d. Kuulumine Rotarysse on midagi erilist, ole Sinagi!

ROTARY RAHVUSVAHELISED UUDISED

Ian Riseley has spent his career making connections among friends, colleagues and Rotarians. He brings that gift for putting people together to his work as Rotary's president. RI president Ian Riseley paremal. "Traditionally, I pay for the coffee." Ian H.S. Riseley makes this pronouncement in such a serious tone that you believe it. Until, that is, his friend Kevin Harrison guffaws. Just who does pay for the coffee is never resolved, but the good-natured joking sets the mood for a walk along the banks of the Patterson River in the suburbs of Melbourne, Australia. His entire life has been about putting people together, nurturing ideas, and guiding people with practical suggestions about what to improve and how. The new president of Rotary does it with such easy charm and self-deprecating wit that at first you might not realize how intensely focused he is. Riseley's earliest exposure to Rotary was typical of what many newcomers to the organization experience: He wasn't sure what to make of it. In 1977, he was the owner of an accounting firm when one of his clients invited him to speak at the Rotary Club of Cheltenham. "My first question was, 'About what?'" Riseley recalls. His second: "What's a Rotary club?" He gave a talk on income tax. "Nice people, laughed at the right places, stayed awake the whole time," he jokes. A few weeks later his client called again to invite him to a planning meeting for a new club in Sandringham. "I said, 'I'm not really sure what Rotary does, but I'm happy to come along,'" Riseley says. "I actually missed the first meeting, but I got another call, and I went to the next one. The movers and shakers were all there, so I thought, wow, what a group to be involved with." Before joining, he consulted his wife, Juliet. Many of Ian's friends were also accountants, so she thought Rotary could help him meet people outside his professional circle. He became a charter member of the Rotary Club of Sandringham in 1978. Riseley embraces the idea that Rotary is a place where people network and make professional connections while doing good in the world. "I'd love to say that it was the projects and things that Rotary did that won me over, but that's not correct," he notes. "It was being involved with people who obviously were the absolute business elite in the area." Once he became involved in Rotary, it became central to his and Juliet's lives. "Maybe 15 years later I was considering doing my master's degree," he says. "I said to Juliet, 'What do you think?' and she said, 'Well, you'll meet lots of new people. Too many of our friends are Rotarians.' It was the rationale for joining Rotary – too many accountant friends – in reverse. Rotary is like that. Rotary grabs hold of you. Our daughter calls our involvement Rotarama. She says, 'Rotarama has got all of you,' and it's true. I think it happens to the majority of us.” Despite the Rotarama effect, Riseley’s service hasn’t been limited to Rotary. He has given his time and energy to the Sea Scouts, to sporting associations and school councils, to a local community advisory group. In 2006, the Australian government awarded him the Medal of the Order of Australia in recognition of his wide-ranging service to the community. Ever the accountant, Riseley thinks one way to demonstrate Rotary’s impact is to quantify it. “What Rotary doesn’t do is calculate the value of its output. We’ve got 35,000 clubs around the world and they all do good things.” He envisions asking every club to report how much money it spends or donates and how many volunteer hours it puts in so that Rotary can calculate the output: “I believe that not just the rest of the world, but Rotarians themselves, will be astonished at the value of what we do.” Ian and Juliet Riseley love to sit on their back deck, which offers views of their garden. The evenings are filled with the scent of flowers and the song of birds. It’s a perfect place to relax and reflect at the end of the day
